Ego Angle

A researcher says that a study of brain activity shows that cigarette smokers may be more aware, more energetic and more intelligent than people who don't smoke. But before smokers begin preening themselves over this little nugget they should note that the Tobacco Institute footed the bill for the study.—Anniston (Ala.) Star

Evading Phase II

Explaining why the government's Price Commission has recommended that increases in mail rates by the Postal Service not be subject to regulation, a commission official said: "The goal is to fight inflation. Since Postal Service deficits are financed by Congress, it doesn't make much difference whether a person has to pay more for a stamp or more in taxes." The public, in other words, be damned.—Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier

Only Normal

The Capitol sanitarian, responding to congressional staff complaints that the Longworth House Office Building cafeteria is overrun with cockroaches, admits the problem exists. Seems everything in Washington these days is bugged.—Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

A Difference

Those who say changes should be made that would enable a poor man to run for office don't go so far as to say that he could get elected.—Little Rock (Ark.) Arkansas Democrat

Fire Caused by Gas Leak

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP) — A ruptured four-inch gas main was found at the edge of one of the buildings destroyed early Wednesday morning in an explosion and fire here that caused more than $2 million in damage.

An Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. crew found the ruptured line at the edge of the office of Oras Dotson, a dentist. His office is about 25 feet from the Leader Department Store.

Newport Police Sgt. Rex Sasser said a preliminary indication was that an accumulation of gas caused an explosion in the rear of the department store.

Carl Scheibner, public utility engineer of the state Public Service Commission, "confiscated" the pipe, according to Mike Masterson, a newsmen for the Newport Daily Independent. He said Arkla officials declined comment.

Representatives of the federal Bureau of Mines and a Dallas, Tex., engineering firm were at the scene at request of Arkla to assist in the investigation.

The PSC is investigating the cause of the explosion and Pros. Atty. David Hodges of Newport said Thursday he may ask for a federal investigation of the blast.

Meanwhile, cleanup operations continued and city officials said they expected city streets to be clear of debris by the end of the weekend.

Pollution Code Formed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Pollution Control and Ecology Commission has submitted to the Environmental Protection Agency's regional office at Dallas amendments to the 1969 air code to bring it up to federal standards.

The EPA will review the code amendments to determine if they meet federal requirements.

The code sets emission standards for industries and other operations so that the state can achieve federal ambient air quality standards by the May 1975 deadline.

Some industries already have begun installing necessary pollution-control equipment to comply with the standards.

HOPE, ARKANSAS, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1972

THE LONGEST SKATING RINK in the world may well be frozen Nymphenburg Canal in Munich, West Germany. The decorative waterway, which stretches miles from the city to a former royal palace, every winter becomes the playground of thousands of skaters when it freezes over.

Would Update Drug Laws

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A group of state legislators decided Thursday to submit a bill to the special session to update the 1971 drug control law.

Rep. Ralph Patterson of North Little Rock said the bill would be offered as a substitute to Gov. Dale Bumpers' legislation for a major revision of the law.

Patterson said some legislators felt that a special session should not attempt a major reworking of the law. He said the committee bill would make the most needed changes, saving a larger revision for a regular session.

One provision of the bill would provide for a minimum one-year probation for first offenders convicted of possessing controlled drugs.

The bill also would clarify ambiguous penalty provisions of the statute on the illegal sale of a controlled substance. Another would clarify the definition of marijuana. Patterson said some types of marijuana might not be covered by the act because of lack of an adequate definition.

The proposal also would include a provision including a misdemeanor penalty for possessing a forged prescription.

In addition, the measure will include a "rebuttable presumption" clause declaring that a person is presumed to have possessed drugs for sale, a felony, if he possesses more than a specified quantity. Simple possession is a misdemeanor.

Hexachlorophene Is Nightmare to FDA

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hexachlorophene, the potent germ-killer suspected of causing brain damage, is fast becoming a regulatory nightmare for the Food and Drug Administration.

The FDA fears that its Dec. 6 warning against use of the antibacterial skin cleanser for bathing newborn babies may be partially to blame for a rash of infection outbreaks in hospital nurseries across the country.

Twenty-four government officials and pediatricians huddled for six hours Wednesday to weigh reports of 74 cases of staphylococcal skin infections, most of them termed minor, in 22 hospital nurseries since a nationwide survey began less than two weeks ago. Although all had stopped routine hexachlorophene (HCP) bathing of babies, hundreds of other which also had stopped the 22-year-old practice reported no outbreaks.

The group's conclusion: "Further studies are needed to determine the risk-to-benefit ratio of careful short-term use of hexachlorophene in newborn infants."

In the meantime, the group said, the government will stand pat on its warning not to bathe babies routinely with such three-per-cent HCP solutions as

Reaction to Lottery

By BERNARD COHEN
Associated Press Writer

Ted O'Neil of Boston says he would much prefer to have been first in the Irish Sweepstakes instead of the draft lottery, but adds "it might turn out to be a prelude."

O'Neil and other men born March 6, 1953, will be the first ones drafted next year according to a sequence determined by the drawing of capsules in Washington Wednesday for the nation's fourth draft lottery.

O'Neil and Robert J. King Jr. of Minneapolis, also No. 1 in the lottery, both said they were worried that a hitch in the service could delay college plans.

"I'm kind of glad that I don't have to worry about Vietnam or something like that," said King, a University of Minnesota freshman. "It's okay (to be drafted) but I'd rather not miss two years at the university now," he added.

Being drafted was not all right for Terry Holbrook, 18, of Tulsa, Okla., who vowed he'd go to jail before accepting the draft.

"I'm not military minded," said Holbrook, who works in his father's firm and is also slated to be among the first to do a military uniform. "It wouldn't do me any good if I did go into the service. I'll probably take the conscientious objector status first, and if that doesn't work, I'll see how long the jail term will be."

Informed that he was No. 1, William Shepard, also of Tulsa, said "of course I'm shocked because I really didn't think my number would be No. 1, but I'm not going to back away from my duty."

Men born on March 7 are second in line for a call next year and those with Aug. 3 birthdays are No. 3. The safest spots were for those born July 23 with No. 365 and Sept. 9, No. 364.

Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr said the draft call for 1973 was not yet known. But he added that calls for the remainder of 1972 should be lower than those of recent years.

None of the two million men involved in Wednesday's lottery will be drafted until 1973 and President Nixon has promised to try to end the draft by the middle of 1973 and replace it with all-volunteer armed forces.

Young members of several state Selective Service Youth Advisory Commissions conducted the drawing in which blue capsules containing numbers were matched with red capsules containing dates.

The atmosphere was relaxed until three-quarters of the way through the drawing when No. 1 was drawn.

The hand of fate that reached out to keep Virginia Tech freshman Jeff McCauley at the end of the draft turned out to be a brotherly one.

Brian McCauley, Jeff's brother and chairman of the Virginia Selective Service Youth Advisory Commission, picked out April 15, Jeff's birthday, as No. 343.

Nixon Thinks Over China Trip

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, who seems increasingly fond of spur-of-the-moment travel, is here for a solitary weekend of homework for his China trip.

Nixon's decision to visit his bayside home was so unexpected that the military was unable to provide presidential helicopters to carry him from outlying Homestead Air Force Base to his closely-guarded compound following a hurry-up flight from Washington.

As a result, his jet set down Thursday night at Miami International Airport—a shorter motorcade distance from his ranch-style quarters.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, the only top aide to accompany the President, said Nixon planned to concentrate while here on books and briefing papers relating to his Feb. 21-28 trip to Communist China. Mrs. Nixon remained in Washington.

Flying to Florida aboard the presidential jet was Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League. Rozelle had been a guest at a White House conference and reception earlier Thursday and, said Ziegler, Nixon offered him a ride after learning the pro football chief was Florida-bound for a vacation.

British Prepare for Parade Sun.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, (AP) — Security forces say guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army are slipping into the blockaded town of Newry to attack British troops sent there to disperse a planned civil rights march by Roman Catholics on Sunday.

Roads to Newry, near the border with the Irish Republic, have been blocked by soldiers who are searching vehicles for hidden arms. British intelligence officers say they were tipped by a woman that the IRA gave her sons British army uniforms to wear at the parade.

The planned parade Sunday by thousands of civil rights marchers has been declared illegal under Northern Ireland's ban on public processions. IRA leaders claim they have advised their members to avoid Newry over the week to prevent another "bloody Sunday" in this embattled British province.

In everyone's mind was the fear of a repetition of last Sunday's Londonderry shootout that left 13 civilians dead in clashes with army paratroopers.

Civil rights organizers pressed ahead with plans for the Newry march despite appeals to call it off from political and church leaders including William Cardinal Conway, Catholic Primate of all Ireland.

Nearly 90 per cent of Newry's 18,500 population are Catholics who mostly favor uniting the province with the independent Republic to the south.

The army and police made an eleventh-hour appeal for the parade to be abandoned and replaced by a "stationary" rally which would not violate the ban on public processions.

"Terrorists are likely to take advantage of any confrontations between marchers and security forces to launch armed attacks," the British military and Royal Ulsters Constabulary said.

Military spokesmen said gunmen in army uniforms probably would be able to move close to real soldiers and shoot them down.

ABA Seeks to Combat Crime

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The American Bar Association will be asked next week to support legislation requiring criminal suspects to submit to fingerprinting and other tests, although they are not under arrest.

ABA endorsement could enhance chances that Congress will approve the bill introduced in January by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb.

The legislation already has the backing of the ABA's Section of Criminal Law, headed by Justice William Erickson of Colorado Supreme Court. The recommendation will be put to the ABA's policymaking House of Delegates on Tuesday.

The ABA section also proposed some changes in the bill to assure compliance with the Constitution's ban on "unreasonable searches." For one thing the suspect will have to be advised he has the right to a lawyer at his side.

Meanwhile, the same ABA group is asking the House of Delegates to oppose legislation that would permit use of evidence at federal trials that was obtained by police in violation of the Constitution.

Hruska's bill would not require the suspect to respond to questions about the crime. The identification tests, including lineups, blood and urine specimens, photographs, handwriting and voice samples, would be under the supervision of a judge.

The ABA section said the bill "appears to be constitutional" under Supreme Court decisions and that it would not violate the 5th Amendment's protection against compulsory self-incrimination.

Things You've Heard of But Haven't Seen

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things we've heard of but haven't seen lately:

A plumber on welfare.
Howard Hughes.
A 100-cent dollar.

A college president who refused to solicit endowment funds personally on the grounds it was undignified.

A teen-ager afraid of his parents.

A doctor making home calls after midnight with a horse and buggy.

A successful politician who claimed he had a lousy mother.

A pro football quarterback with an inferiority complex.

A general who refused to accept a medal because he really doubted that he had been all that brave.

A homely girl without hope.

An ugly girl who didn't secretly believe she had a saving grace that gave her an inner beauty.

An executive who actually works 16 to 18 hours a day—like he tells it to newspaper and magazine interviewers.

An actress with a sincere regard for another actress, unless the second actress is in her 80s and retired.

A bootblack who invested his tips all his life and died leaving a fortune of $1 million to Uncle Sam in gratitude for a government that made it all possible.

A child that really enjoyed kissing all its relatives.

An author who ever built a monument to his publisher.

A hot dog at a baseball park that was worth 45 cents.

A victorious racehorse that ever gave equal credit to its jockey.

A fat cannibal with his pot full of missionary.

A bank president in a double-knit suit and a five-inch-wide necktie.

A circus clown that was notably funny.

A royal flush in a poker game when there was anything on the table but pennies.

A villain so dumb that when he had a beautiful girl at his mercy the only thing he could think to do with her was to tie her across a railroad track.

A box top you could send away and get a better box top back.

A two-bit haircut.

A hood who actually wore an oversized hat, a dark shirt and a pair of sunglasses.

Any dog, horse or bird—except a stool pigeon—that could speak in complete sentences or tell a funny story very well.

Any chef with the ability to give a breaded veal cutlet a memorable personality or a dish of eggplant a worthwhile identity.

A stockbroker who could give better advice than a ouija board on when to buy or sell a stock.

Against Bonus for Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although military reserve strength still is falling, the Nixon administration has backed away from proposed enlistment and re-enlistment bonuses to stem the drop.

The action comes despite repeated statements by top officials that they have promoted the National Guard and Reserves to front rank in preparedness while cutting the regular armed forces toward their lowest level in nearly a quarter-century.

According to the latest reports, Guard-Reserve manpower slipped to nearly 44,000 below strength at the end of 1971 while draft calls were light and all signs pointed to a diminishing draft in the future.

Last year, Pentagon manpower chief Roger T. Kelley indicated the administration was preparing to recommend bonuses ranging up to $2,200, along with other incentives, in the new defense budget.

But when President Nixon sent his defense budget for fiscal 1973 to Capitol Hill last week there was no mention of bonuses.

Instead, Nixon said the impact of recent pay increases and other improvements on reserve enlistments "will be closely observed."

"Further incentives may be necessary in the future to assure manning levels and high combat readiness for our reserve forces," Nixon told Congress.

Since the budget message, it was learned the Kelley has written a House Armed Services subcommittee saying: "I want to take full advantage of this period of light draft pressure to determine whether we need such incentives as variable re-enlistment and enlistment bonuses."

Kelley said an evaluation should be possible by mid-April.

The defense-manpower boss noted that many men who have enlisted for one year did so expecting a bonus for re-enlisting in the Guard or Reserve.

He acknowledged that the draft has been "virtually eliminated as motivation" for enlistment in the Guard and Reserve

Still Seeking Site of Baez

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bernie Galb of Folklore Productions, managers of Joan Baez, said Thursday he hopes to locate in the southern area a facility for a benefit performance by Miss Baez for the Lee County Cooperative Clinic.

The performance had been planned for Memphis, but was cancelled when officials of the Mid-South Coliseum at Memphis said it would not be available on the date requested.

Barton Coliseum in Little Rock is booked in March by the state high school basketball tournaments.

Galb said Miss Baez will arrive at Memphis Feb. 14 and will visit the clinic that day and then return to California. The clinic provides medical services to the poor in Lee County.

Convention Bonds Sold

PINEBLUFF, Ark. (AP) — The Pine Bluff Convention Center bonds, an issue totaling $3 million, were resold Thursday for an apparent low bid of 5.3 per cent.

The bid was submitted by a syndicate of Simmons First National Bank of Pine Bluff, First National Bank of West Memphis, National Bank of Commerce of Memphis, Womeldorf and Lindsey of Little Rock and Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith of Dallas.

The bid was tentatively accepted by the Pine Bluff City Council. It represents a $3,000,000 savings over the amount for which the bonds were sold last November.

The November sale was made to a combine of Stephens, Inc., T. J. Raney and Sons, W. H. Satterfield and Satterfield and Sons, all of Little Rock, on a bid of 5.35 per cent.

Postal Rate Increase Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Rate Commission's chief hearing examiner has recommended boosting the cost of an airmail letter but retaining the price for post cards.

Examiner Seymour Wenner recommended Thursday that the price for an airmail letter be increased from 11 to 13 cents and that the new permanent rate for post cards be six cents—the present temporary rate.

Last February, the Postal Service had asked for an 11-cent airmail rate and a seven-cent rate for post cards.

Wenner also recommended a 4.6-per-cent hike in parcel post rates. But rather than grant a proposed 8.3-per-cent boost over five years for the special fourth-class rate for books, records and films, he cut that proposal down 17.5 per cent.

Wenner's recommendation did not affect the eight-cent temporary rate for first-class postage or the second- and third-class rates proposed by the Postal Service.

Wenner said his rate schedule would cut the service's estimated deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972, from $57 million to $44 million.

Many Enroll in Private Schools

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma City's private schools report they are getting the now-customary flood of applications in the wake of a new federal integration order.

Parents seeking to avoid busing of the new integration plan are out of luck—most of the schools say they are already operating at or near capacity.

The head of Oklahoma's Roman Catholic schools, the Rev. David Monahan, said his Oklahoma City schools probably will tighten admission policies in the next week or so to bar non-Catholics.

The telephone at Casady started "ringing off the wall" Tuesday afternoon, only hours after U.S. District Court Judge Luther Bohannon's new integration order was announced. Headmaster Robert Woolsey reported.

He said Casady normally receives two applications for each of the 100 places that become available each year, but when Judge Bohannon announced his integration plan in 1970, applications jumped to five for each opening.

Headache Has Many Causes

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Will you please explain and comment on tension headaches. I am 56 and have had constant headaches since my menopause seven years ago. I have been to three doctors and have had hospital check-ups and tests. All say it is tension headache and I will have to learn to live with it. I haven't learned yet. It is getting the best of me. I have two friends who take estrogen shots and get along fine. Do you think estrogen would help me and do you recommend it? My doctor has never prescribed it and I can't tell a doctor what to do.

Dear Reader — Headache is a very common complaint. Possibly 90 per cent of the population has headache at one time or another. There are a variety of causes for headache including sinus problems, dental problems, the vascular type headaches, the migraine headaches and those which are related to muscle soreness. The latter group are often called tension headaches. Any of the muscles around the head or the back of the neck that remain in sustained contraction for prolonged periods of time may cause headaches.

Individuals who are tense or have other factors which cause them to have prolonged muscle contractions are prone to these headaches. Because nervousness or tension is often associated with tensing of the muscles around the head and neck the term tension headache is often used.

In individual attacks aspirin, massage and local heat are often helpful.

It is difficult to know whether estrogen would help you or not. In general, if there is some factor such as this contributing to tension headache the best form of treatment is to get at the source. Thus, if a person has a sinus problem that causes headache the most satisfactory treatment is to correct the sinus condition. If you are having menopausal symptoms that contribute to nervousness and in turn cause you to have muscle contractions which lead to muscular headaches, then no doubt the administration of estrogen could help.

Not every woman needs estrogen after her periods have stopped. There are other sources of estrogen in the body besides the ovaries. Sometimes these sources are adequate. This explains in part why some women tolerate the change of life better than others.

A doctor can tell whether a woman has enough estrogen or not by doing a special examination on a vaginal smear and studying the characteristics of the cells. They are different if there is not sufficient estrogen. There are other ways, too, of measuring estrogen level, but you could certainly ask your doctor to either do or have such an examination done. It might be well to go to a gynecologist for this purpose.

Can't Justify Expenditures

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A federal audit covering all grants to Arkansas AM&N College at Pine Bluff from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare through last June calls for reimbursement of another $46,000 to the federal government.

A report released last week by federal auditors had recommended that $270,000 in grants AM&N received through the National Institute of Health be refunded.

ABA Stars Are Acting Like Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky's Dan Issel and Carolina's Jim McDaniels, who led the East to victory last weekend in the American Basketball Association's All-Star Game, were at it again Friday night for their respective teams.

Issel, the most valuable player in the All-Star Game, poured in 36 points to lead the Colonels to an easy 131-111 victory over Pittsburgh while McDaniels scored 28 points, including the tie-breaking basket with 24 seconds, as the Cougars defeated Memphis 106-100.

Elsewhere, Virginia turned back the Floridians 115-107, Dallas trimmed Denver 118-102 and Utah beat Indiana 121-110.

In the National Basketball Association, it was Boston 122, Cincinnati 109; New York 103, Buffalo 84; Seattle 118, Cleveland 112, Detroit 118, Philadelphia 113; Chicago 110, Baltimore 108; Phoenix 113, Golden State 105; Los Angeles 118, Milwaukee 105; Portland 114, Houston 113.

Issel's performance overshadowed Pittsburgh's 1-2 punch of George Thompson and John Brisker, who scored 31 and 28, respectively.

After a 26-all first-period tie, the Colonels pulled away to a 12-point halftime lead with Issel scoring 16 points in the second period. They led by as much as 25 in the final quarter.

Memphis, which trailed Carolina by 13 points in the third period, went ahead by a point with 5:44 left and the lead changed hands several times until McDaniels put the Cougars ahead for good. Memphis rookie Johnny Neumann tallied a career high 37 points.

Utah's fast break overpowered Indiana as Red Robbins led the way with 34 points and Willie Wise added 26. George McGinnis was tops for the Pacers with 24 after Mel Daniels got in early foul trouble.

Donnie Freeman's 41 points sparked Dallas past Denver and Joe Hamilton contributed 19 and Steve Jones 15 as the Chaps got 75 points from their three guards. Dallas took a half-game lead over Denver and Memphis in the race for third place in the Western Division.

Charlie Scott scored 27 of his game high 37 points in the second half as Virginia overcame an eight-point deficit and defeated the Floridians.

College Basketball Roundup

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

In Texas, it's "Big D." That's not Dallas, pardner, that's Dwight Davis.

Davis, the big darling of the Houston rooters, banked 28 points as the Cougars upset the 12th-ranked Florida State Seminoles 94-86 in college basketball Friday night.

Houston's strongarm forward helped his club score 61 points in the first half as the 10,483 fans cheered every twitch at Hofheinz Pavilion.

"That first half we played as well as we can," said Houston Coach Guy Lewis, "especially when you consider the high character of competition."

The first-half pointslide, built on shooting of 62 per cent, gave the Cougars a 61-34 lead at intermission and helped them withstand the visitors' strong second half.

"I realized that we weren't going to shoot 62 per cent again in the second half," said Lewis. "I also knew that a great team like Florida State would find some way to come back."

Penn., the country's No. 6 team, crushed Harvard 84-60, fifth-rated Long Beach State whipped Illinois State 88-63 and Westmont upset No. 14 Hawaii 90-89 in other games.

Phil Hankinson scored 20 points and Corky Calhoun had 18 as Penn breezed over a Harvard team which has been laid off 16 days since mid-term exams.

"Harvard defended us as well as anybody this year," said Penn Coach Chuck Daley. "Calhoun really put the game on ice with his final spurt" when he scored 15 of his points in the second half.

Ed Ratleff scored 19 points as Long Beach outclassed Illinois State and Fred DeVaughn scored 34 points and grabbed 22 rebounds to lead Westmont's upset of Hawaii.

Is Old Age Catching up with Dallas 'Dynasty'?

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(NEA)—Clint Murchison, the impish little crew cut with the big bundle of money, called it their "12-Year Plan" for winning—the culmination of the Dallas Cowboys at Super Bowl VI. And Texas E. Schramm, without trace of a drawl, spoke of dynastic achievement.

Would you believe they're also ready to fall apart, like the sand castles on a beach before the late afternoon tide? Already, before they've really had the chance to savor their status as champs, the Cowboys are getting old.

Five men on their starting offensive unit in the Super Bowl will be 30 years old or more by the start of next season. Eight men on their Domesday Defense are already past 30.

Is this a budding dynasty?

The defense particularly faces a revamping in the near future. Herb Adderley, the only man who has played in four Super Bowls, is on the edge of 33. According to one Cowboy assistant coach, young Mark Washington, a second-year man, would already have taken over Adderley's left corner post in the secondary if he hadn't been hurt.

Cornell Green, approaching 32 with a decade of experience, probably had his career stretched by moving to the strong safety position last year from a corner job. The man-to-man coverage experience of Green was especially valuable in the Super Bowl when the Dolphins put their wide receivers in motion and Cornell followed them across the field to provide double coverage with one of the corner backs.

Mel Renfro, the bald all-pro at the right corner, is also 30. The linebacking trio of Chuck Howley, Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards has an experience total of 31 seasons. Howley, at 36, will have to start getting relief help from D. D. Lewis. Jordan, one of the smallest middle linebackers in the game, is the irreplaceable guy right now. The Cowboys will be drafting for an eventual successor in his area.

On the front line, the future trend showed when George Andrie, a 10-year man, found himself alternating at right end with young (23) Pat Toomay, a superior pass rusher, until coach Tom Landry went with Andrie's experience in the play-off games.

Bob Lilly, who is probably the greatest all-around lineman in pro ball, will be 33 before next season starts, but no one envisions any change in his tackle domain.

Offensively, wide receiver Lance Alworth and fill-in left tackle Tony Liscio are closing in on 32, with alternate tight end Mike Ditka already there. Alworth, rejuvenated by the Cowboy experience after nine years with San Diego, is sure to hang on another season. Ditka will try to keep going, too. But Liscio, dragged out of a real estate office in mid-season, is doubtful.

Center Dave Manders and, amazingly, quarterback Roger Staubach flick out birthday cakes with 30 candles in February. Even swiftie receiver Bob Hayes will be 30 by the end of next season.

None of this is to intimate the Cowboys are decrepit, just as Green Bay, which in the Lombardi era was accused of growing old, proved that winning keeps aging bodies functioning at a productive level beyond their physical peaks. But it does indicate the Cowboys are plotting extensive turnovers in personnel.

A couple of old Packers who were retrieved for insurance this year — Forrest Gregg and Lee Roy Caffey — are certain to become normal everyday Texans again in civilian life. Craig Morton, the rejected quarterback, and Duane Thomas, star of the silent TV screen, could be traded.

The Cowboys have been depicted as automatons in Coach Landry's highly disciplined system, with messenger ends bringing in plays and defenders discharging area responsibility like robots, but in rising to the top they've certainly produced some phenomena.

They started the past season with the only bankrupt passing combination ever, Morton to Alworth. They once had a wide receiver arrested for exhibitionism. Thomas is surely the most eccentric sports figure in recent history.

So let them grow old. The Cowboys have been, for their relatively short tenure as a nationally celebrated team, something to write home about.

THE AGE OF MANY KEY DALLAS COWBOYS, including Bob Lilly, left, Mike Ditka, center, and Chuck Howley, is raising questions about the future of this year's Super Bowl champions. Five men on the Dallas starting offensive unit and eight on the starting defensive team will be 30 or older by the start of next season. Lilly is 33, Ditka is 32 and Howley is 36.

Grandma Jackie Pung Is Still Swinging

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—She's a grandma six times over, and she still shakes a mean hula. Says it helps her golf swing.

"The flexible finger movements, the straight shoulders," elucidates Jackie Pung, "played an important part in my training to obtain the grooved, beautiful Hawaiian golf swing."

woman golf swing."

You remember Jackie Pung, who when growing up on the island of Oahu was known as Jacqueline Liwai—pronounced "Levi" as in Dolly Levi of "Hello, Dolly!" "Everybody wonders," she says, "what's happened to Jackie Pung. Well, Jackie Pung's gone to greener pasture."

The swinging grandmother was in from the islands to tell us this herself, with a lei of pikake (peacock-ee), an exotic flower vine of Ha-vah-ee, dangling down from her round shoulders.

You might as well know that Jackie hasn't changed shape from the time she was a regular on the women's golf tour. It wouldn't be exaggerating to say Jackie's face was as round as a happy smile, with torso to match. In 1957, she won the U.S. Women's Open—well almost. Except that she accidentally turned in a wrong score card and was disqualified, an horrific misdemeanor committed years later by Roberto de Vicenzo in the Master's.

The greener pasture to which Jackie Pung (Mr. Pung's family was descended from King Kalakaua) went lies on the big island of Hawaii, in an old lava bed on the western coast, from which has been carved the Waikoloa Mauka golf course, saddled between the great mountains of Mauna Kea and Mauna Loa. Mrs. Pung is the resident head pro.
